Engage your Colleagues and Peers with NACCE

As valued members of the National Association for Community College Entrepreneurship (NACCE), you are part of a dynamic community dedicated to fostering innovative action, entrepreneurship, and economic growth within our nation's community colleges. Your engagement and advocacy are key to expanding the reach and impact of NACCE's mission.

We invite you to take an active role in leveraging your membership to benefit not only yourselves but also your colleagues and peers within and outside your college community. Here's how you can make the most of your NACCE membership and encourage others to do the same.

- 1) Share NACCE's Resources
- 2) Extend invitations to NACCE Events & Webinars
- 3) Provide information about NACCE Professional Development Training and Digital Badging
- 4) Forward NACCE Enews and Quarterly Journal
- 5) Be an Ambassador and tell others about the value YOU receive by being a NACCE Member

Art and Entrepreneurship

Join us in celebrating the success of Wake Tech Community College and its students! After the 2023 NACCE Conference, with the theme of "The Beat of Collaboration," Wake Tech embraced collaboration in full swing by hosting two exciting competitions focused on the arts.

Among the highlights, Wake Tech student Quinton Taylor who emerged victorious, clinching first place in not one, but two competitions: the Everyday Entrepreneur Pitch Competition and Wake Tech Idol.

In the Everyday Entrepreneur Pitch Competition, four talented students showcased their innovative ideas for entertainment businesses. Quinton Taylor, founder of Taylor Music Academy, stole the show with his passion and vision. His music academy, catering to young aspiring musicians aged 5-15, secured a $2,500 grant, which he plans to utilize for acquiring new instruments and offering scholarships.
